Explanatory notes

This application is to issue a new water share to convert:
- A water share to a water share with a different water system;
- A take and use licence into a water share; and
- An interstate entitlement into a water share.

These are known as exchange rate trades and are subject to trading rules. The trading rules can be found here: http://waterregister.vic.gov.au/water-trading/trading-rules. Contact your water corporation for more information.

Using the water share on land
This application allows you to nominate water-use licences you wish to formally associate with your water share.

To formally associate a water share, the water share owners must also be owners or occupiers of the land or be related to the land owner. A water share cannot be associated if it would exceed the water-use licence's holding limit.

If you do not nominate a water-use licence to be associated with the water share, the water share will be disassociated and have a delivery system of Non-Water User.

However, allocation from the disassociated water share can still be used on your land by linking the water share with an allocation account (ABA) that is linked to your water-use licence.

Allocations
By linking a water share to an allocation account you are applying to have future allocations from the water share deposited into that account. If you are not named on this ABA, you are giving future allocation to the holder(s) of that account under a standing direction.

Lodging the application
All owners of the water entitlements be converted into the new water share must sign this application.

Companies must attach an ASIC company extract that is less than 12 months old. Two directors or one director and secretary are required to sign.

Incorporated associations must attach an incorporated association extract that is less than 12 months old. The listed secretary is required to sign.

The water corporation will notify the water share owners and the lodging party by letter of the new water share when the application has been processed

What is happening under the Water Act 1989
This form is an application, where applicable, for the Minister's approval to:
- Issue a water share (under section 33L);
- Associate a water share with land (under section 33AQ);
- Give a standing direction (under section 33TA); and
- For holders of interstate water entitlements to apply for a water share (under section 33M).
